Backyard Play Safety

With summer approaching, Emergency Medical Services (EMS) would like to encourage parents and caregivers to ensure their backyard play areas are made safe for children. Although direct supervision is the best method to reduce the chance of injury, ensure your play equipment in your yard is in good repair and is suitable for the age and skill of the children using it. Check play equipment often; replace or repair any worn or broken parts. Set up play equipment over top a nine inch layer of shock-absorbing material, which extends six feet out in all directions from the play area.

Water hazards

- Drowning contributes to unintentional injury-related death among children ages one to four;
- Children can drown in just a few centimetres of water if it covers their mouth and nose;
- Ensure all backyard swimming pools are fenced. The fence must be at least 1.8 metres(*) high and have a self-latching, self-closing, lockable gate.
(*Alberta Building Code)

Lawn and garden tools

- Keep young children away from outdoor power equipment;
- Serious burns may result from touching hot engine surfaces;
- Ensure that all sharp tools, fuel, chemicals, and other hazardous substances are stored in a secure, locked area. A simple latch may not be sufficient.

Insect bites and stings

- Minimize the risk of attracting insects by not wearing strong perfumes or scented lotions;
- Avoid wearing brightly coloured clothing outdoors;
- Consider destroying or relocating hives and nests situated near your home;
- To avoid injury through inadvertently stepping on a stinging insect always wear footwear outdoors;
- If your child has received an 'EpiPen, Junior' prescription from your physician (for anaphylactic reactions only) ensure they understand when and how to use it;
- If your child experiences a severe reaction to an insect sting, or other environmental cause, seek medical attention, or call 9-1-1.

The Village GREEN – Edmonton’s Waste Management Centre

-Erin Olefeldt

At first it can be frustrating and disappointing to read that our state-of-the-art waste management centre is failing to meet its goal of helping to divert 90% of the City’s household waste from the landfill. After an audit of its operations earlier this year, it was reported that the facility in the last few years, is more accurately diverting between 49.5% and 35.7% of all waste received and that number is decreasing each year. I’ve been guilty of bragging to out-of-town visitors about Edmonton’s fantastic facility and how they don’t have to worry too much about sorting or even throwing something in the garbage...it’ll all be sorted and diverted at the Waste Management Centre! Unfortunately, that’s just the kind of the wasteful, not-my-problem type of attitude that helped get us into this mess. So instead we can view this news in another light. It’s a wake-up call to Albertans that our wasteful habits need to change. Albertans generate more waste per person than any other province at 981 kg per person per year. That’s twice as much as Nova Scotians and 280 kg more than the national average.

The Waste Management Centre is currently revising its overall strategy and for the next two years will be making some major changes. I contacted the Centre to see what citizens can do during the transition to ensure that as much waste is being diverted as possible. The overall message from the incredibly dedicated and helpful people who work at the Centre was don’t be discouraged, keep on recycling! Here’s a handy list I’ve compiled from their advice of the extra things you can do to have the greatest impact on our collective waste generation:

1. Compost at home. It’s important for each of us to reduce our own waste footprint as much as possible. A little less than 60% of household waste collected is organic (compostable), but it’s too much pressure on the City’s composting facility. If you live somewhere where this isn’t possible then you can reduce food waste by planning meals, shopping with a list, and using leftovers.
Visit edmonton.ca/compost for more information.
2. Don’t send grass clipping to the curbside. This is a big one. An estimated 30,000 tonnes of waste could be avoided just by making this one simple change! You can use grass clippings in your compost or just leave them on the lawn where they break down pretty quickly while adding nutrients to your lawn! For tips and tricks visit edmonton.ca/qobagless
3. Consolidate your recyclable plastic bags. Plastic bags including grocery bags, dry cleaning bags and bread bags are all accepted. Do the “stretch test” if you’re unsure if it’s recyclable. If you pull the bag and it stretches, it’s recyclable. Place all bags in one bag and tie it shut before placing it in your blue bag. Don’t forget to bring your cloth shopping bags with you when you go to the grocery store!
4. Keep paper clean and dry. Paper that is dirty has no economic value. Make sure your bags are tied shut when you set them out so precipitation doesn’t wet the paper, which makes it more difficult to sort.
5. Rinse containers and clean out pizza boxes. Make sure you do give containers a good rinse before putting them in the recycling and be sure pizza boxes are emptied of greasy liners and food chunks.
6. Avoid Styrofoam. Styrofoam goes straight to the landfill. It has no economic value. You can even ask your favourite take-out restaurants to switch from Styrofoam containers to something recyclable, or you can bring your own container! Once the Enerkem Waste to Biofuels facility is up and running, The City plans to send Styrofoam there to be converted to ethanol.
7. Buy in bulk and try to reduce the number of purchases you make that are heavy on packaging.
8. Check the Reuse Directory. Visit edmonton.ca/reusedirectory to find a list of organizations accepting a wide range of items for donation.

Yes, it’s a little more effort, but clearly our current system isn’t working and we will likely all need to do a bit more separating in the home in the near future. So consider making some waste reduction goals for you and your family and get started today!

The City of Edmonton is listening! Visit edmonton.ca/futureofwaste to include your voice in the upcoming changes to the waste collection plan.

Special thanks to Erika Droessler, Education Programs Coordinator for Waste Services.

Welcome to Coronation School!

We are extremely excited to continue enhancing our focus on the International Baccalaureate (IB) Primary Years Programme (PYP) to emphasize inquiry and development of the whole person.

Through the support and talent of our students, staff and families, we work together to create a dynamic learning community. At Coronation, we're committed to ensuring all students have a sense of belonging and are engaged, active and involved in high quality learning opportunities.

International Baccalaureate Primary Years Programme

As an IB World School, Coronation strives to challenge students with rigorous learning experiences. We establish this by:

- involving students actively in their own learning
- engaging students with rich, relevant content
- high level questioning (by adults and students)
- providing opportunities for students to express voice and choice
- emphasizing depth of learning, not just coverage
- focusing on the quality rather than quantity of student work

Curriculum

The Primary Years Programme identifies the curriculum in three ways:

- written curriculum—what do we want to learn?
- taught curriculum—how best will we learn?
- assessed curriculum—how will we know what we have learned?

These types of curriculum are equally important in shaping students' learning experiences at Coronation.

Classroom Learning

In a PYP classroom, portions of each school day are also dedicated to helping students master essential knowledge and skills in basic subject areas such as math, reading and writing. All teaching aims to foster student curiosity and critical-thinking skills, developing an international perspective and meeting the diverse needs of all students.

Assessment

In the PYP, assessment is part of a continuous cycle that leads students to deeper levels of understanding. Assessment is used to identify students' current level of understanding and determine what they need to learn and how they will best learn, so they can master new knowledge, concepts and skills.
